

David Williams

I have been involved in youth work since the age of 17 as a volunteer and now as a degree qualified Youth Worker managing Torfaen Youth Service. I have a strong belief in the contribution that young people can make when given appropriate support and context in which to grow. A highly skilled work force who are motivated and dedicated to supporting young people and their families is essential to that support and I am looking forward to joining the Education Workforce Council as education for young people in Wales is at an incredibly exciting point of change.