

Kevin Pascoe

I have been an active school governor in three high performing schools for the last eighteen years. I very recently retired as a development manager for the Open University in Wales, leading their widening access to Higher Education work for those already in the workplace with employers, trade unions and regulatory bodies across Wales. I had previously worked in Further Education for seventeen years in the south Wales valleys. I have been an active UCU trade union member and am a member of the Socialist Education Association. I previously sat on the Children and Young People's Overview and Scrutiny Committee for Bridgend CBC for sixteen years. I have sat on the NHS Wales expert advisory group for the development of health care support workers and also the Social Care Wales digital governance board.
